Man sentenced 18 months for sexually molesting girls

By MARLO BARNHART
Staff Writer

A Funkstown man who pleaded guilty in October to sexually molesting two young girls during the summer of 1987 was sentenced this morning to 18 months in the Washington County Detention Center.

Fred Thomas Ebberts, 46, of 1 South High St., Funkstown, could have faced a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison on each of two counts of third-degree sexual offense.

And Washington County Circuit Judge Fred Wright said he would have been harsher had there been any evidence that Ebberts forced himself on the two girls.

Wright ordered Ebberts to continue counseling and pay $421 in restitution for the costs of counseling for one of the victims. Ebberts was placed on probation for three years.

At the October hearing, the events on several nights in June and July of 1987 were detailed. The girls, who were 12 and 13 at that time, were spending the night at the home of one girl's grandparents when they got into a liquor cabinet and became intoxicated, according to police reports.

They had left the grandparents' home and gone to a spring house on the property when Ebberts came in and engaged in touching and fondling the girls and attempted to have sex with them, according to police reports.

After that night, the girls apparently called Ebberts and invited him over again. There were subsequent sexual encounters at the grandparents' home and at Ebberts' home in Funkstown, police reports showed.

The incidents came to light in April.

Ebberts came to the Maryland State Police barracks and admitted to Tfc. Michael Potter he had fondled the girls and attempted to have sex with them. He also admitted he knew in 1987 that the girls were very young.

This morning, Ebberts cried softly and apologized for the incidents.

Wright said he didn't sentence Ebberts to prison because there was no evidence of force and Ebberts was candid about the events and pleaded guilty, thus eliminating the need for the victims to testify in court.

A Funkstown man who pleaded guilty yesterday to sexually molesting two young girls during the summer of 1987 is free on $15,000 bond pending completion of a pre-sentence investigation.

Fred Thomas Ebberts, 46, of 1 South High St., Funkstown, could face a maximum sentence of 10 years on each of two counts of third-degree sexual offense. He appeared before Washington County Circuit Judge Frederick C. Wright III yesterday.

In exchange for the guilty plea, charges of second-degree rape, assault with intent to rape and second-degree sexual offenses were dropped.

The girls, who were 12 and 13 at that time, were spending the night at the home of one girl's grandparents when they got into a liquor cabinet and became intoxicated, according to police reports.

They had left the grandparents' home and gone to a spring house on the property when Ebberts came in and engaged in touching and fondling the girls and attempting sexual intercourse, according to police reports.

After that night, the girls apparently called Ebberts and invited him over again. There were subsequent sexual encounters at the grandparents' home and at Ebberts' home in Funkstown, police reports showed.

The incidents came to light in April.

Ebberts came to the Maryland State Police barracks and admitted to Trooper Michael Potter he had fondled the girls and attempted sexual intercourse. He also admitted he knew in 1987 that the girls were very young.
