SUBJECT: Michael May

Dear Rudy:

Thanks for sending us the confidential record sheet for Michael May. This gives us all the information we need on his personal statistics.

We would appreciate being informed as this case is pursued through the courts. After we reviewed this information with our attorney, he asked that I try to get the final outcome of the trial before we make the final decision. I see no problem with keeping the man on the file but do need information that will help support this.

We, therefore, would ask for a letter from the youth involved or his parents, if possible, plus any newspaper articles or statements which indicate that the trial has been completed and the individual sentenced.

Sincerely,

Paul I. Ernst, Director

As a followup to my telephone call to you on February 14,
 I am attaching a news article regarding the incident.

Corporal Schirf of the Montgomery County Police Department also advises that other evidence such as photos, film, etc., found in Michael May's home indicates prior involvement with other Scouts. On the evening in question, Mr. May picked up the Scout in question on the basis of taking him to purchase a uniform. The Scout's parents do not own an automobile.

The police will not provide a copy of the charge.

If the case goes to trial, we will keep you posted. I would recommend placing this Scouter on the confidential list.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

By Judith Valente

Washington Post Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

Crime + Criminals
S.C. - Sex Crime

By Judith Valente
Washington Post Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

By Judith Valente
Washington Post Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster. according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type... well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

HEADLINE: Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

BYLINE: By Judith Valente, Washington Post Staff Writer

BODY:

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop, Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, ^{old phs bks} leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster. according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type... well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

By Judith Valente
Washington Post Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

BODY:

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop, Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, ^{old pho bics} leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second-and three-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster. according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type... well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

HEADLINE: Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

BYLINE: By Judith Valente, Washington Post Staff Writer

BODY:

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop, Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, ^{old phs blcs} leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type... well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

By Judith Valente
Washington Post staff writer

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $13,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type . . . well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

Scoutmaster of D.C. Troop Is Arrested on Sex Charges

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop. Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

Flythe said this is the third incident in seven years in which allegations of sexual misconduct have been made against a troop leader in the Washington area. But in only one of the prior cases was a scout leader dismissed.

A second degree sexual offense involves committing a sex act with someone 14 years old or younger, by a person four or more years older than the victim. A third degree sex offense involves sexual contact with someone 14 or younger by a person four or more years older, police said.

BODY:

A 23-year-old Boy Scout leader from Gaithersburg was arrested Tuesday night on sex offense charges involving an 11-year-old boy from his scout troop, Montgomery County police reported yesterday.

Michael May of 951 Clopper Road, ^{old pho bks} leader of Boy Scout Troop 90 in Washington, was charged with second- and third-degree sex offenses. He was released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.

May was arrested in his Gaithersburg apartment, where police also confiscated magazines of a homosexual nature, and pornographic slides involving young boys.

For the past 18 months, May had been a scoutmaster at Troop 90, which is sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Roman Catholic Church on Western Avenue, according to Reed Clark, Troop 90 committee chairman. May had worked with Troop 90 for at least five years before becoming scoutmaster, according to Monsignor Joseph Corbett, pastor of Blessed Sacrament Church.

May is employed as a plumber's helper with Viking Plumbing and Heating in Rockville.

Clark described May as "strictly a scouting type... well-liked, quiet, very seldom lost his temper." He said he was one of the persons who recommended May for the scoutmaster position since May had a "good family background" and had done a "commendable job" in his earlier work with the scouts.

Rudy Flythe, executive director of the National Capital Area Council of Boy Scouts, said scout leaders are required to fill out a registration form for the position and their names are checked against a list containing the names of persons active in the scouts who have had criminal charges placed against them.

A 23-year old scoutmaster for a Boy Scout troop in Northwest Washington has been arrested by Montgomery County Police and charged with engaging in sexual activity with an 11-year-old member of his troop.

Michael May of Gaithersburg, described by his superiors in scouting circles as a "conscientious, dedicated" troop leader, is also being investigated by police in at least four other sexual assaults on Boy Scouts and other younger children, sources said.

May was arrested at 11 p.m. Tuesday after an earlier search of his apartment in the Orchard Pond garden apartment complex on Clopper Road turned up evidence "of a pornographic nature," according to police spokesman Phillip Caswell.

This evidence included pictures of May with several of the young victims, sources said.

"The alleged incidents may go back as far as two years," Caswell said. "And we have reason to believe that there were other victims involved, including more Boy Scouts."

A graduate of Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, May had been working as a plumber's helper at a Rockville plumbing firm for the last five months. He is described by colleagues there as "an average nice guy who did his work and never had any problems."

His social life focused on almost nightly Boy Scout meetings, according to friends, and his apartment is reportedly a monument to his interest in scouting — with medals, badges, backpacks and other scouting paraphernalia on prominent display.

May has worked as a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster for Troop 90, sponsored by Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church at Chevy Chase Circle for three years. There are 21 boys in the troop, ranging in age from 11 to 18.

As scoutmaster, May was in charge of the weekly scout meetings and any field trips or camping expeditions the boys took.

Montgomery police first learned of the sexual assaults on Feb. 9, when a detective from the District police department's sex squad contacted the county crimes-against-persons unit about the case.

Montgomery detectives then interviewed the 11-year-old victim, who lives in Washington, and the youth told of a sex assault that he said occurred earlier this month at May's apartment.

May was officially charged with second and third degree sex offenses.

A second degree sex offense is defined as having a sexual act with a victim under 15 years of age, when the offender is four or more years old.

A third degree sex offense is defined as "intentional touching of any part of the victim's or offender's body for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification or abuse."

May has been released on a $15,000 unsecured bond, police said.
